Savitribai Phule was a pioneering Indian social reformer, educationist, poet, and the first female teacher of India. She is regarded as the Mother of Modern Education for women in India. At a time when girls were denied education and social equality, Savitribai courageously worked to promote women's rights, eradicate caste discrimination, and improve the condition of the oppressed sections of society. Her life is an inspiring example of dedication, courage, and social service.

Savitribai Phule was born on 3 January 1831 in Naigaon, Maharashtra. She belonged to a socially backward farming family.

Parents: Khandoji Nevase and Lakshmi

Marriage: She was married at the age of about 9 years to Jyotirao Phule.

During that period, girls were not allowed to study. After marriage, Jyotirao Phule educated Savitribai at home and trained her to become a teacher. This education transformed her life and motivated her to work for the upliftment of women and the oppressed.

Savitribai Phule was a visionary reformer far ahead of her time. Her relentless struggle for women's education, social equality, and human rights transformed

Indian society. Despite facing intense opposition, she never gave up her mission. Her life teaches us the importance of courage, education, and social responsibility.

She will always be remembered as a torchbearer of women's empowerment and social justice in India.
